John Janecek has over 35 years of experience in government contracting law and policy. He is the former Deputy General Counsel of the U.S. Department of the Air Force and spent 16 years total as the Air Force's senior procurement and acquisitions attorney.

Mr. Janecek joined STEESE♦EVANS♦FRANKEL, P.C. in 2009. Prior to that, he was a counsel with WilmerHale LLP.

Practice

Mr. Janecek's practice concentrates on government contracting matters that include contract formation and performance, cost and pricing, audit rights, "Buy American" obligations, data and software rights, small business preferences, ethics rules, suspension and debarment, bid protests, claims litigation, teaming agreements, subcontract terms and conditions, security clearances, and due diligence in mergers.

Mr. Janecek has provided counsel to large defense, aerospace, and commercial companies, as well as to small and disadvantaged business concerns in both the defense and civilian sectors.

As the senior acquisition attorney for the Department of the Air Force, Mr. Janecek provided counsel on contracting, systems acquisition, logistics and technology issues to the Secretary of the Air Force and other Air Force executives and senior program managers. He also provided advice on mergers and acquisitions, contractor suspension and debarment and contract security and classified matters. He was responsible for defending the Air Force in bid protests, overseeing contract litigation and intellectual property policy and coordinating remedies in procurement fraud investigations.

While with the Air Force General Counsel's office, Mr. Janecek sat on the committee that drafted the Federal Acquisition Regulations and Defense acquisition regulations. Prior to joining the Air Force General Counsel's Office in 1980, Mr. Janecek served as an attorney at the Department of Defense, handling matters relating to contract administration, including cost accounting and pricing. He also provided counsel on personnel and labor relations issues and was a trial attorney before the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals. Prior to law school, Mr. Janecek served in the United States Navy as a supply officer.

Professional Activities

Mr. Janecek is Member of the American Bar Association, Section of Public Contract Law. He is also vice chair, and previously co-chair, of the Section's Bid Protest, Legislation Coordinating, and Acquisition Reform and Experimental Procurement Processes Committees.
